

We are pleased to offer you an exquisite selection of premium cigars.

A cigar lover makes his choice because of his personal preferences and the available time.

Here are a few words about the different sizes:

Not only the different tobacco mixtures of the offered brands determine the strength of a cigar, but also the format; The slender cigars of a line are more powerful, and those with a larger diameter are slightly milder.

You can find further recommendations and information about the brands in our small guidebook.

CIGAR GUIDE

Cut

The way the cigars end is cut off ultimately determines the quality of the smoke, the fineness and the intensity of the cigar aroma, as well as the regular burning of the cigar. Only the cap of the cigar head should be cut by using a double blade cutter, the diameter of this opening should always be slightly smaller than the total diameter of the cigar.

Light

A good cigar should never be lit with a gasoline lighter, a candle or a match. Connoisseurs light their cigar with great patience. Keep the open cigar end about 1 cm above the flame and turn the cigar until a glow has developed. Only then you put the cigar in your mouth and enjoy the first smoke.

Enjoy

The true connoisseur does not "smoke" his cigar, he enjoys it, because the goal of each smoke is to give his palate an extraordinary pleasure. Once your cigar is out, you can ignite it as long as it is still warm.

Cigar ring

It is advisable not to remove the ring as this is manually attached to most hand-rolled cigars. When removed, the ring can stick to the cover sheet and damage it.

Ash

It is not tapped but carefully stripped. There should always be a little ash. This makes the smoke smoother and the aroma unfolds better.

Extinguish

The cigar is not stubbed out. Just put it in an ashtray and let it burn out.
